THREE LESSONS ENTREPRENEURS WANT YOU TO LEARN

MENTORS CAN BE THE MISSING PIECE TO THE PUZZLE

This Docu-Series Was Created for Entrepreneurs by Entrepreneurs. Here Are 3 Lessons They Want You to Learn

Three entrepreneurs are transformed after learning the importance of these three critical lessons.

By Michael Schneider Human capital specialist, Welltravvr @MSchneiderTwts

Starting a business is a roller coaster of emotions. There are moments of joy and certainty, and there are moments of frustration and doubt. Although the process of building a business is often glorified and idolized, the reality can be anything but.

In a new docu-series, The Movement, you follow entrepreneurs as they experience the ebbs and flows of launching and scaling a successful business. As they sell their ideas and compete for funding, you watch as three individuals undergo a grueling process that transforms not only their companies, but also themselves.

By the end of the show, ideas and technology aside, three things stood out as the keys to success – and they're great lessons for all entrepreneurs.

1. Vulnerability is the greatest gesture of strength.

The docu-series kicks off with a string of pitches. In two minutes, contestants are given an opportunity to sell their ideas and businesses to a panel of CEOs, talent leaders, investors, and strategists from across the globe.

Once the pitches were over, the feedback from the audience was different than I expected. In addition to critiquing the idea, many of the panelists made comments about the entrepreneurs' coachability – their awareness, listening skills, and adaptability. In fact, some contestants were selected based on these factors alone.

In Glyn Blaize's case (founder of Northstar Innovation Group and winner of The Movement), he had a great idea, but his initial pitch left many people questioning the value of his product. Rather than getting defensive, he welcomed each criticism as an opportunity to refine. He allowed himself to be put in a vulnerable position where aspects of his plan could be exposed, but rather than writing everyone off and minimizing their feedback, he used it to enhance his business.

According to a study by Leadership IQ, a leadership training and research firm founded by New York Times bestselling author Mark Murphy, 46 percent of new employees fail within 18 months because they could not accept constructive criticism and feedback from their managers. They lacked the "coachability factor."

Whether you're a new employee or an entrepreneur, this serves as an important reminder that you can't expect others to help you if you're not willing to help yourself. Opening the door to criticism is as vulnerable as it gets. But, if you're not ready to place the "business's" success above your pride, then don't be surprised if it fails.

Vulnerability is not weakness. It takes courage and confidence. It's counterintuitive, but being open about your limitations could be the key to unlocking your full potential.

2. Mentors can be the missing piece to the puzzle.

I've been fortunate to have had mentors all throughout my career. If it wasn't for their guidance and support, I'm certain that my trajectory would be entirely different.

Unfortunately, many overlook the coaches they have access to and attempt to tackle everything on their own. I don't know if it's pride, impatience, or fear of being exposed, but a great mentor, in my experience, can save you months if not years of unnecessary struggle.

One of the major themes that came through The Movement was the emphasis on mentorship. The powerhouse cast consisted of executives and leaders from North America, the UK, and Asia Pacific. In total, there were hundreds of years of experience and wisdom in the room.

With their direction, each one of the three finalists made massive strides towards enhancing their business. From upgrading value propositions to the creation of revenue models, each entrepreneur solved a critical problem that was impeding the growth of their companies.

Regardless of the tasks at hand, there are others who have experience in overcoming them. Although it can be scary to open up and admit shortcomings, a mentor can help you navigate career-limiting hurdles.

3. Success is not the end. Failure is not the end.

The journey, building a career or business, doesn't end with success or failure. Even with success, there are problems to solve and obstacles to overcome. Instead of measuring your value by wins or losses, fall in love with the process. Then, regardless of whether or not you fail or succeed, you're still growing.

In the words of Winston Churchill, "Success is not final, failure is not fatal: it's the courage to continue that counts."

In many cases throughout the show, the entrepreneurs had to overcome stumbling blocks created by both their successes and their failures. It's all a part of the process. Regardless of whether you're currently prospering or persevering, you're still progressing – and that's all we can ever hope for.

In my opinion, there lies the significance behind The Movement. In the words of Benjamin Franklin,

"There are three sorts of people in the world. Those who are immovable, people who don't get it, or don't want to do anything about it; there are people who are movable, people who see the need for change and are prepared to listen to it; and there are people who move, people who make things happen."

This docu-series is focused on encouraging people to make things happen. To continue to move forward. And if more people feel emboldened to do so, that in itself will be a movement.

GLENN B. MILLER

A MAN OF BUSINESS AND PASSION

Principal and Founder of MBG Finance, Glenn B. Miller has built an impressive career as an entrepreneur. Nowadays, he also is a Mentor and Guest Lecturer at McGill University's MBA Program where he shares his business turnaround expertise with future entrepreneurs. A true art lover, he also is a patron of the arts, and owns a gallery in Montréal. Encounter with a one of a kind businessman.

BY DIANE STEHLÉ

An accomplished businessman, Glenn B. Miller had, in the beginning, set his sights on a totally different career: playing football. Leaving the sport was a difficult decision to make, but Glenn found his niche in working during eight years for two major companies specializing in employee benefits. Thanks to his acquired expertise, he was then spotted by an American agency which entrusted him with a particular mandate: operate the first American Hospital in Moscow. Glenn thus became one of the first Canadians to work in Russia after the fall of communism.

Having heard of his talent, the Desjardins Group offered him, shortly afterwards, to become Vice President, Business Development. He was 31 at that time. He remained in this position for eight years. "This job brought me a lot, and helped me prepare for my career as an entrepreneur," commented the man whose meaningful look, charming smile, and obvious charisma rather evoke a Hollywood actor than a Businessman. Holding nothing more than a Bachelor's Degree in Education, Glenn finally hit a wall: "Without a MBA, it is very difficult to progress in this corporate environment."

Somehow, he needed new challenges. In 2002, he was approached to be the President of the Montreal Alouettes. The story attracted a lot of media attention, and made all the business people aware of his name. But Glenn had another project in mind: set up his own business. He then created Emergia Capital, an agency funding corporate reorganizations.

His business was proceeding well, and even made several acquisitions, until 2008, when the American financial crisis hit him with full force. "My bank in Chicago went bankrupt, and I lost my funding. This was one of the most important lessons I learned in my life. I realized that a business is never fully protected against a financial crisis, and one that it is closely linked to a global economy." He then came out with a new philosophy: "I decided to not do business with banks anymore." He then reorganized his MBG Finance company in 2009, which aims at helping organizations that are expanding at a very high rate or undergoing restructuring. His company is based on a private fund and offer alternative financing.

DETERMINATION & PERSISTENCE

Determination and persistence [are the most important traits in being an entrepreneur, in my opinion] because there are a lot of setbacks when you have your own business.

Everybody can ride the wave, everybody can surf when the waves are big. It's fun, it's easy.

It's when you're at the bottom of the wave and you've got the tide pulling you back and you can't breathe... that's when you see who the real entrepreneurs are!

You have to create value every day.
You have to be innovative.
You have to be daring and prepared for the ups and downs.

You've got to be persistent, determined, because it's a super competitive world out there.

“ JE SUIS TRÈS EFFICACE LORSQUE JE TRAVAILLE, MAIS, SURTOUT, JE PRENDS LE TEMPS DE M'AMUSER. I'M VERY EFFICIENT AT WORK, BUT I ALSO TAKE THE TIME TO ENJOY MYSELF. ”

— GLENN MILLER

Parallèlement à ses activités de financier, Glenn Miller offre des séances de mentorat à une clientèle privée. Entrepreneurs, présidents d'entreprise, athlètes de haut niveau : tous vont le voir pour obtenir de précieux conseils qui permettent à leur carrière d'aller plus loin. Depuis sept ans, l'homme d'affaires est également mentor et conférencier au programme de MBA de l'Université McGill, un rôle qu'il prend très au sérieux et qu'il exerce avec passion. Il n'est d'ailleurs pas rare que ses élèves lui envoient des lettres de remerciement touchantes.

UN DRAGON INVESTI
Il y a deux ans, Glenn Miller a été sélectionné pour participer à la docu-série populaire The Movement en Angleterre, sortie de Dans l'air du dragon britannique avec une tendance plus ludique. Chargé de superviser une équipe d'entrepreneurs, le coach garde un excellent souvenir de cette expérience : « J'ai côtoyé des entrepreneurs incroyables de partout à travers le monde, en plus de profiter d'une belle visibilité. La série est maintenant disponible sur Amazon Prime. »

Comme si cela ne suffisait pas, l'homme d'affaires siège à de nombreux conseils d'administration, comme celui de Show Canada, leader mondial dans la conception de scènes pour événements. Récemment, l'ancien footballeur a aussi été présenté comme le potentiel acquéreur des Alouettes de Montréal. Toutefois, le principal intéressé tient à préciser que, pour le moment, « [sa proposition n'est pas d'acheter l'équipe, mais plutôt de la redresser pour la mettre en vente à la fin de cette saison 2019 et, surtout, de trouver le bon groupe d'acheteurs locaux. »

L'ART, LA MUSIQUE... ET LE RESTE!
Bien que Glenn Miller ait toujours de multiples transactions sur la table, des entrepreneurs ou des étudiants à coacher et des entreprises à gérer, il vit néanmoins à fond ses passions ou, plutôt, ses autres passions, car ses activités professionnelles relèvent souvent d'intérêts personnels. Ainsi, mécène des arts depuis de nombreuses années, il gère la carrière de sa femme Lisabel, artiste peintre dont l'atelier-galerie est situé à Montréal, mais dont les œuvres se vendent sur les quatre continents. « Les toiles de Lisabel sont maintenant présentées dans la galerie la plus renommée de Vancouver, LeSoleil Fine Art. De plus, nous avons mis en place un partenariat avec Sync Productions, qui va permettre à l'artiste de réaliser des performances en direct lors d'événements corporatifs. De mon côté, je vais agir à titre de conférencier pour cette entreprise. »

L'HOMME D'AFFAIRES SURNOMMÉ « RENAISSANCE MAN »

THE BUSINESS MAN KNOWN AS RENAISSANCE MAN

PAR | BY DANIE STEHLÉ

Certains rêvent d'avoir une deuxième vie pour accomplir tout ce qu'ils ont en tête. Glenn Miller se contente de celle qu'il a pour faire tout ce dont il a envie. Homme d'affaires, mentor, entrepreneur, conférencier, mécène, membre de conseils d'administration, musicien : le fondateur et président de MBG Finance est un homme-orchestre qui réussit tout ce qu'il touche dans des domaines extrêmement variés. Ses amis l'ont d'ailleurs surnommé « Renaissance Man », en référence à son énergie débordante. Rencontre avec un homme d'affaires atypique.

Some people wish of having a second life to accomplish everything they dream of doing. Glenn Miller, on the other hand, uses the one life he's been given to do it all. The founder of MBG Finance, a businessman, mentor, entrepreneur, speaker, philanthropist, board of directors member and musician, is a true one-man band who succeeds at everything he does across an extremely wide variety of activities. His friends have appropriately nick named him Renaissance Man, in reference to his boundless energy. We met with this extraordinary business man.

Ancien footballeur, Glenn Miller a une carrure imposante et, derrière sa voix grave, calme et posée, on sent immédiatement la force tranquille d'un homme qui connaît les règles du jeu et qui a vu de toutes les couleurs au cours de sa longue carrière. Cette sérénité, combinée à une expertise hors pair, l'homme d'affaires la met depuis plusieurs années au service des autres, par l'intermédiaire de son entreprise MBG Finance d'abord, par ses fonctions de mentor ensuite.

Former football player Glenn Miller has an imposing stature, and behind his deep, calm and poised voice, there is clearly the quiet strength of a man who knows the rules of the game and who has seen just about everything over his long and successful career. The business man uses this quiet serenity, combined with his outstanding expertise, to help others both through his company, MBG Finance, and his passion as being a mentor.

Fondée en 1997, MBG Finance se consacre en effet à aider les entreprises qui sont en forte croissance ou qui ont besoin de restructuration, grâce à des prêts-relais garantis par des actifs tangibles. « L'entreprise propose des services bancaires d'investissement et du financement de type pont pour toutes sortes de situations spéciales », explique-t-il. Aujourd'hui, MBG Finance est impliquée auprès d'une trentaine de compagnies, principalement au Québec, mais aussi en Ontario et en Alberta, du domaine technologique au secteur manufacturier, en passant par celui du cannabis. La dernière en date se nomme Assis4 Media, une entreprise prometteuse spécialisée dans le marketing numérique.

MBG Finance, founded in 1997, is appropriately devoted to helping fast-growing businesses or other companies that need restructuring, with the help of bridge loans guaranteed by tangible assets. "The company offers alternative and asset based financing for all type of special situations," Miller explains. Today, MBG Finance is involved with approximately thirty companies located mainly in Quebec, but also in Ontario and Alberta, in sectors ranging from technology, to manufacturing, to cannabis production. Their latest collaboration is with Assis4 Media, a promising company specialized in digital marketing.

Depuis toujours, la musique a aussi une grande place dans la vie de Glenn Miller. Et comme il ne fait jamais les choses à moitié, ce percussionniste confirmé fait partie d'Atomic Clam, un groupe de musiciens professionnels. Dans la vie, l'entrepreneur est aussi père de trois grands enfants. Quand, au fil de la conversation, on lui demande comment il réussit à caser toutes ces activités dans son agenda, il répond simplement : « Je suis très efficace lorsque je travaille, mais, surtout, je prends le temps de m'amuser et je n'ai pas besoin de trois maisons. Pour moi, les biens matériels ne sont pas le plus important. L'essentiel est d'avoir du temps pour profiter de ceux que j'aime, de ma femme et de mes enfants, car c'est eux que me vient mon énergie. » Vous l'aurez compris, « Renaissance Man » a 1001 occupations, mais il a un cœur et il est à la bonne place.

Music has always played an important part in Glenn Miller's life. And since he never does things moderately, this experienced percussionist is part of two professional music groups, the Bob Ricci Band, playing at Montreal's House of Jazz, and The Atomic Clam. The entrepreneur is also a father of three grown children. When we asked him how he manages to fit everything into his busy agenda, Miller simply answered, "I'm very efficient at work, but I also take the time to enjoy myself, and I don't need three homes. Material belongings are not important to me. What's important is taking the time to enjoy life with the ones I love – my wife and my children – because that's where I get my energy." Though this Renaissance Man may have one thousand and one activities on the go, his heart is always in the right place.

THE MAN BEHIND THE SCENES

Mr. Dupont is fifty years old. Having worked for over twenty years as an employee at a large accounting firm, motivation has waned. He fosters another dream; the dream of becoming an entrepreneur. But is it really worth it, leaving his stable job and financial security to embark upon the unknown? His business concept is solid... but how will he develop it?

BY CASSANDRA POIRIER

Alexandra is a top-notch athlete. She is recognized beyond her athletic discipline and has garnered well-earned recognition amongst Quebecers. She has even launched her own brand in the sports industry, but business is not going well. How can she reposition her business and put an end to the financial catastrophe?

The names and circumstances outlined above may be fictitious, yet they represent real-life situations. Glenn Miller has faced a number of these scenarios throughout his career. In what capacity? First of all, as a business owner and later in his career, as mentor and professional business coach.

"As a businessman first and foremost, I would not call myself a professional mentor. That being said, mentoring and coaching are roles to which I am dedicating more and more time in my life, as I have witnessed a great need over the years," explains the businessman and Founder and President of MBG Finance, among others. In the Montreal business community, his name and reputation are well established. A glance at his biography and press kit offers evidence of an impressive and diverse professional career.

He established himself in the industry as vice-president of business development for the financial holding company of a Canadian bank for eight years. After this formative experience, this charismatic man launched his own consultancy specializing in financial restructuring, where he raised more than $75 million in capital for his own businesses and his clients. Senior executive, entrepreneur, consultant, financier, patron, coach, and mentor, Glenn Miller now wears multiple hats, but his favorite by far is that of mentor.

Having led corporate turnarounds for twenty years, Glenn Miller has witnessed several corporate and human tragedies. These situations are difficult to live through, despite his experience. "When we restructure companies, we make proposals, we refinance, we close factories, we dismiss employees, we address debt... It is an extremely difficult profession. My career as financier and entrepreneur made me realize that if I put all my knowledge into practice as a coach and mentor, I would be able to accomplish a lot by way of prevention. Engaging with entrepreneurs early on, I help mitigate difficult circumstances and leverage opportunities for growth so that they can reach their full potential. I believe this is a much more important role."

As a lecturer and mentor for McGill University's MBA program for the past six years, he has received visibility as a mentor and business coach, facilitating the development of private clientele. His work is recognized in the field and promoted through word of mouth. Businessmen, executives, entrepreneurs, professional athletes, public figures, and television people of all ages reach out to him. The common rule amongst them is that identities are not disclosed. Confidentiality and mutual trust are the foundation for a productive mentor relationship.

A MUTUALLY INSPIRING RELATIONSHIP

"A mentor must inspire, assist and be very honest: sometimes I have to communicate things that people do not want to hear. I have clients who are willing to mortgage their home and risk everything for a project whose chances of success are slim. The role of a mentor is to rise above the noise and impart his or her knowledge. It is a role that comes with a lot of responsibility, and I do not take it lightly," Glenn confides with passion.

This passion is evident when he talks about mentorship, a relationship he wholeheartedly believes in. "There are a lot of entrepreneurs who can benefit from a mentor, but sometimes it is difficult to initiate. It takes humility, as many people have reached a point in their career where they need guidance, yet immerse themselves within their industry and become isolated. A mentor offers an external perspective and challenges business decisions to help them reach new heights. I would go so far as to say that entrepreneurs have a much greater need for mentorship than a Dragon's Den style program, to which many people aspire."

Be it financial difficulty; career reorientation; business acquisitions; new ventures; debt, or facing bankruptcy, there are countless opportunities to leverage the knowledge of a mentor. Whatever the circumstances, establishing objectives is a priority. Over the course of three to ten sessions, the mentor poses questions to ascertain the context, the needs, what is going well, and where there is room for improvement. A one-year business plan may be developed. One element is a given; a relationship of trust is established.

"One of the things that surprised me the most about mentoring is that business problems are often correlated to personal problems. Clients have gone through a divorce, face heavy financial pressure, live a lavish lifestyle beyond their means, or have a lack of experience. These problems have spilled over into their professional lives, resulting in bad decisions. So for me, mentorship and coaching also involve the personal lives of my clients. These are not easy conversations, but they are essential."

Glenn Miller is instrumental behind the scenes; he counsels and comforts. Helping people achieve their full potential is what makes this businessman thrive, where nothing is more rewarding than seeing a company flourish after their encounters. A simple SMS from a small business owner that states 'I feel good. I am motivated and look forward to the next session!' is transformative. "It inspires me!" he explains.

Let us open our minds, venture beyond our surroundings, seek advice, and welcome a new perspective, because alone we go faster... and with a mentor, we go further!! "People are often comfortable when they remain within their industry, yet they are not happy with their work. I encourage mentorship to broaden horizons, push beyond the confines of one's past, and seek inspiration in the world around them." So, who will be your mentor?

WITH LA METROPOLE
A concurrence of circumstances will put Glenn B. Miller touch with Stéphane Messier, editor for Journal Métropole and LaMetropole.com (a public information portal). The financier sees the media, and is particularly impressed by the fact that it is one of the rare independent media around, besides Le Devoir. He also prides the fact that it is on the side of citizens, and relations dealing with soulless governments and administrations. "I met with your editor, and a great chemistry quickly ensued. I wanted to get more involved, even if my work schedule is insane. It's worth it, since the future looks bright ahead."

The first meeting went so well, it was followed by further ones, until he was invited to become a member of LaMetropole.com's executive committee, since it is facing new challenges at a time where information is undergoing great changes. "My role is to examine Messier Media's strategic direction, and to ensure that we are prepared to meet our business objectives in this changing environment", says Mr. Miller.

THE PATRON
Even though he spends the most part of his days reading financial reports and discussing over the phone, he has a passion equal value consisting of his love for the arts of a painter. Indeed, in fact, he loved her so much that he fell in love with her and married her. He then became her agent and business partner, and oversee the recognition of his investment. This produced rapid results. "What I desire in the arts world though is that we are caught up in an obsession of another century."

Gallery owners and museums still have the same attitude towards artists, often excluding them. Also, the meaning hasn't changed in a very long time. It came to the conclusion that we must change all this. "And what Glenn recognizes the need to change, though change quickly, here's proof. He initiated the decoration of a landmarked the grounds of a Stoney plaza top. The work value to each of these painted luxury objects. These days Glenn is back, which is located on Clive Street, in Quebec City, where he has become a prime artist."

Corporate functions are held there regularly. Businessmen love to hold cocktails in such a dazzling setting. The works of the emerging artist look like a beautiful forest, all there a sensual look to them, and their the name, "The Red and Green" (painted figures) painted, which is a great metaphor for the future. "I am proud to have Glenn B. Miller as a patron, and I am proud to have Glenn B. Miller as a patron."

LaMetropole is thankful to Glenn B. Miller among its series, and will have the best of his expert advice. Thanks to him, your public information media, LaMetropole.com, enjoys a promising future and our mentor is invited by the website, since even in France, communication is vital.

How some of Montreal's newest gallery owners are getting more creative in their quest to sell the works of the city's many artists, educate the public and – not least of all – support themselves in lean times

JOHN POHL
GAZETTE VISUAL ARTS CRITIC

It is a belief widely shared in Montreal's art community that this is not a good place for selling art. Yes, it's a good city for artists to live and make art, the thinking goes, with rents low compared with Toronto – which is where the art buyers are said to be, and where many Montreal gallery owners go each fall, to the Toronto International Art Fair, to show off the artists they represent.

But selling art in this city? It's a challenge. And, yet, new galleries continue to throw open their doors, ever optimistic.

Five such galleries are emblematic of a new wave of art sellers determined to attract buyers in different ways.

How?

Some are setting up in the suburbs, away from the traditional downtown stomping grounds of the artistic set.

■ They're redefining what a gallery looks like: Who says it can't look like a hip loft condo, with sofas for lounging and pondering, the better to imagine the canvases in your own home?

■ They are living up the art environment by combining gallery space with artists' ateliers so potential buyers can walk through and meet the artists, see how they work, put a face to the paintings.

■ They are offering art classes under the same roof that houses the galleries and studios.

■ They're getting people into galleries who wouldn't otherwise be there by inviting charities to use the space for fundraising events, and if someone decides to buy a painting, wonderful: a cut of the commission goes to the charity Win-win.

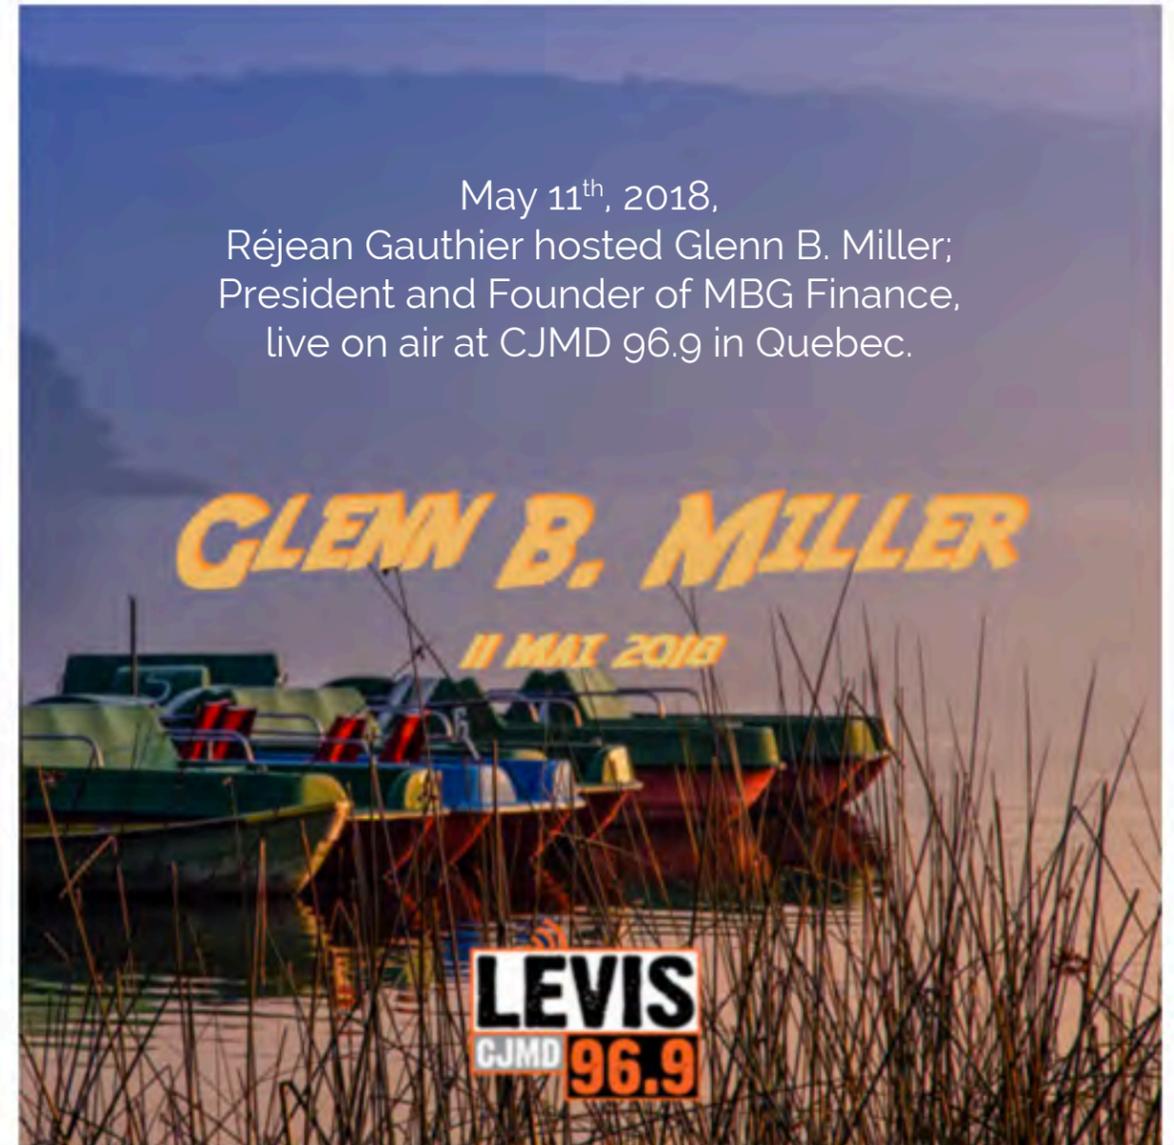

■ They're selling other items, not just paintings and sculptures.

In short: they're branching out.

ENTREPRENEURIAL THINKING

...As he [Glenn Miller] saw her [Lisabel] grow into herself as an artist, he took on the role of her manager. His years of working on complex investments in a variety of fields made him a natural fit and resulted in a new and edgy approach to marketing art. “Art has been changing hands for centuries, so there is an accepted model for these transactions,” Miller explains. “I wanted to infuse that process with something new.”

Something new indeed. Just imagine Lisabel’s canvasses—which already push the boundaries of art—combined with Miller’s entrepreneurial thinking. Where did that take them?

To Lamborghini Canada and piano maker Steinway & Sons for starters. Lisabel painted three images on a Lamborghini Gallardo, which was unveiled at the 2014 Toronto Auto Show and commanded the modest price tag of $300,000. For Steinway, she painted the interior of a baby grand piano, adorning it with the inspirational image of a butterfly wing—showing that different kinds of art can be combined, and that art can be anywhere. “We are great lovers of music,” claims Miller (whose name recalls the big band musician from the 1930s and 40s) “so why not bring it all together?”

Miller and Lisabel have also collaborated with the InterContinental Hotel in Montreal and Toronto. Each hotel has a “Lisabel” suite on offer, where guests can bask in rooms that evoke the artist’s unique creative genius. “It’s another way to get art out there,” says Miller. “They don’t have to buy it—but they’ll remember it and they’ll talk about it. That’s what we want.”

And it doesn’t stop there. There are other ways to bask in the art without taking it home. Galerie Lisabel is an original approach to a studio environment—but it’s available for rent for gatherings of all kinds, such as weddings, parties, and meetings. Over two levels, this atmospheric warehouse decked out in all things Lisabel is home to a full kitchen, open-air offices and lounges—all spaces where inspired communication is the goal. “That communication can be in the form of celebration,” says Lisabel. “I want people to feel my art on their most memorable and momentous occasions—let it go and get something in them. Something that they’ll remember forever.”

STRATEGIC LIFE PLAN

People tend to get lost in this multi-communication world today, so I try to bring it back to basics. When I'm sitting in front of a CEO, who's typically very isolated in their business, they find it very refreshing to speak about a strategic life plan. People are often very surprised how they've drifted away from the fundamentals that make them happy. At the end of the day, what drives people and companies forward – it's people.

McGILL SPORTS HALL OF FAME PROFILE: Glenn Miller

“A 6-foot-2, 205-pound inside receiver and place-kicker, he earned the rare distinction of all-star status at both positions in 1984. That year, Miller set a single-season McGill record with 45 receptions, which lasted for 33 years until surpassed by both Charles-Antoine Sinotte (72) and Erik Galas (54) in 2007.

By the time that his university playing career was finished, Miller had become the nation's all-time leading receiver, racking up 2,011 yards, while hauling in 154 receptions and 12 touchdowns in 35 career regular season contests.

McGILL SPORTS HALL OF FAME PROFILE: Glenn Miller

MONTREAL – Each Wednesday for a six-week period from May 20 to June 24, one of the 2020 inductees to the McGill Sports Hall of Fame will be profiled. In our fifth installment, meet football player Glenn Miller of Beaconsfield, Que.

Born in Montréal on March 8, 1963, Miller was raised in Laval, Que., and was educated at École J.-Jean-Joubert elementary school, before graduating from Laval Catholic high school and Vanier College. He played five seasons at McGill, and completed his bachelor's degree in 1986, majoring in education with a minor in psychology, followed by a marketing certificate in 1987.

A 6-foot-2, 205-pound inside receiver and place-kicker, he earned the rare distinction of all-star status at both positions in 1984. That year, Miller set a single-season McGill record with 45 receptions, which lasted for 33 years until surpassed by both Charles-Antoine Sinotte (72) and Erik Galas (54) in 2007.

By the time that his university playing career was finished, Miller had become the nation's all-time leading receiver, racking up 2,011 yards, while hauling in 154 receptions and 12 touchdowns in 35 career regular season contests.

The 2,011 yards established McGill, OQIFC and CIAU records that stood until broken by Jock Climie of Queen's in 1989. Miller currently stands 11th among Quebec conference all-time leaders and ranks third in the McGill record book, behind Charles-Antoine Sinotte (2,935) and Erik Galas (2,522).

The 154 catches by Miller stood as a league record for a dozen years until 1998 when Ottawa's Chris Evraire collected 185 over his career. Miller now ranks seventh in the Quebec league and third in the McGill's alltime leaders, behind Sinotte (251) and Galas (194).

Miller's dozen receiving TDs tied a school record set by Rick Biewald a decade earlier, a standard that stood until surpassed in 2007 by the aforementioned Galas, who ended up with 19 receiving majors in five seasons.

Miller had the unique feat of being the only barefoot kicker in the Ontario-Quebec Intercollegiate Football Conference and the league subsequently implemented a rule that kickers were required to wear footwear. He skirted the rule by becoming the first player to kick with a ballet slipper.

In 1986, Miller set school and league single-game kicking records with six field-goals in a 32-16 victory over Carleton at Percival Molson Stadium. He connected from distances of 20, 21, 44, 32, 15 and 15 yards, respectively. The McGill mark still stands but the league mark was surpassed in an overtime game. He kicked 15 field-goals that year to establish another single-season McGill record, since broken.

A fifth-round selection (44th overall) by Hamilton in the 1985 Canadian Football League draft, Miller ended up returning to McGill for a fifth season before playing pro for Ottawa the following summer in the Empire State Football League. In 1987, he declined an offer from the CFL's Ottawa Rough Riders to accept a position with Prudential of America, a life insurance company.

"It was tough decision for me to walk away from a sport I loved and worked so hard at but I was too ambitious. Chasing my CFL dream was worthwhile but I felt the league was fragile and that weighed heavily in turning down a contract from Ottawa," said Miller. "Looking back on my life and how I succeeded as a businessman, I think it was a good decision."

Nowadays, the seasoned entrepreneur currently serves as president of his own company, MBG Finance, an established financial lending and advisory firm with specialties in asset-based lending, investment banking and advisory services. He also partnered with his wife Lisabel, to open an art gallery studio in Montreal.

Other new laureates joining Miller in the 2020 McGill induction class include hockey All-Canadians Vanessa Davidson of Kirkland, Que., and Bryan Larkin of Saskatoon, Sask., plus soccer All-Canadian Odile Desbois, basketball All-Canadian Nasko Golomeev of Sofia, Bulgaria and Mike Richards, a former hockey player from Estevan, Sask., who was inducted in the builder category.

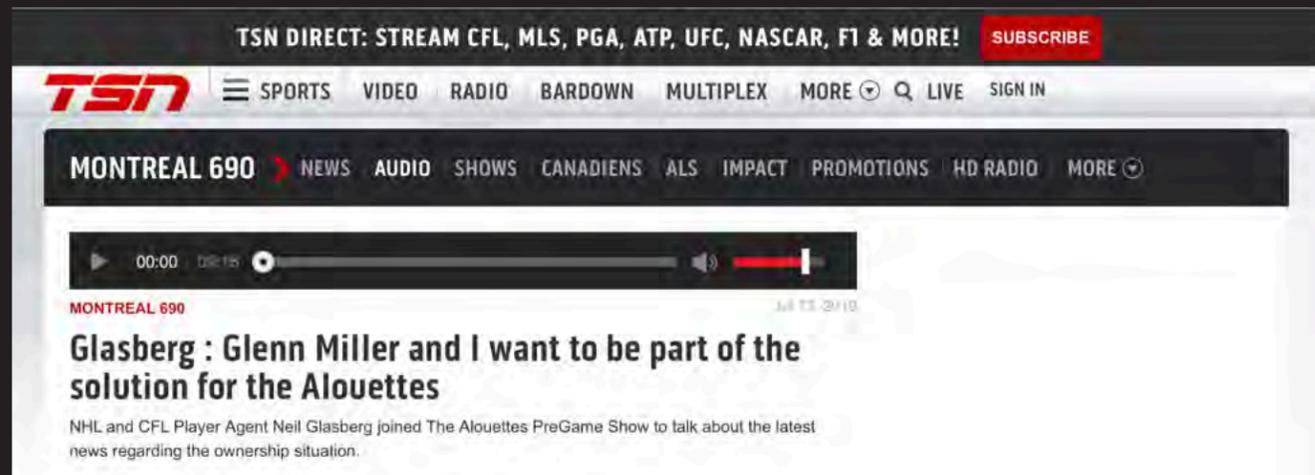

The hallowed Hall now has 157 honoured members, 27 of them Olympians, since the pantheon was initiated in 1996. The 25th annual induction luncheon was expected to kick-off the University's 2020 Homecoming Week celebrations in late September but the coronavirus pandemic has resulted in a probable postponement for a date to be announced later. Profiles for all previous inductees to the McGill Sports Hall of Fame are also available online at: www.mcgillathletics.ca/hof.aspx

GLENN MILLER AND I WANT TO BE PART OF THE SOLUTION FOR THE ALOUETTES

PLAY ▶

Glenn and I have known each other for 40 years; we've done business together. We've both been very successful in our business and corporate careers. And we are two guys who are incredibly passionate, as I've said before, about rebuilding this franchise.

We would be thrilled to have an opportunity to work with the league to 'right the ship' so to speak; to get this thing back on track, to get the right names in the boxes and the right people in the boxes, and just renew and re-energize the franchise.

There could be a new player in the race to acquire the Montreal Alouettes; Montreal businessman Glenn B. Miller.

According to a source close to the file, Mr. Miller would now be a serious candidate for consideration by the Canadian Football League (CFL), which currently owns the team.

He is the president and founder of MBG Finance, a company that specializes in the restructuring of companies facing difficulties.

Reached by phone, he did not deny his interest, even though, he states, the CFL has not yet contacted him.

"If the commissioner calls me, I would be interested in discussing it. I'm 56 years old; I'm still young enough to do crazy things."

- Glenn B. Miller

Previously Vice President of Business Development at Desjardins Group, Glenn B. Miller was approached to become President of the Alouettes in 2002, then in 2011.

"I was ready to work without pay, but I wanted to become a shareholder of the team. I think it's important that there is a local figure at the helm of the team."

A former football player himself, Glenn Miller was halfback and kicker for the McGill University team. He was drafted in 1985 by the Hamilton Tiger-Cats, but did not play in the CFL.

Vincenzo Guzzo, who put his bid on hold last week, has had no further discussions with the league.

As for Clifford Starke, he is no longer a candidate. According to Tony Marinaro of TSN Radio, the CFL has informed Éric Lapointe that his group is no longer being considered as a potential purchaser of the Alouettes.

DES PARTENARIATS ORIGINAUX

Déjà bien présentes au Canada, aux États-Unis et en Europe, les toiles de Lisabel sont désormais offertes à Dubaï et à Hong Kong. « La Chine dispose du troisième plus gros marché pour les œuvres d'art. Il fallait que Lisabel y soit représentée », explique M. Miller. Outre cette conquête des marchés internationaux, Glenn Miller a su associer la Galerie Lisabel à d'autres marques de prestige pour créer des événements uniques.

Au printemps dernier, un partenariat a été conclu avec Lamborghini Canada. Tout comme Andy Warhol l'avait fait en 1975 avec une BMW, Lisabel a transformé la Lamborghini Gallardo en une œuvre d'art exceptionnelle, l'enveloppant de trois de ses tableaux. Offerte pour la rondelette somme de 300 000 $, la légendaire voiture de course a été dévoilée au dernier Salon de l'auto de Toronto.

L'artiste a également peint à l'intérieur d'un piano Steinway. Le résultat, évoquant la splendeur élégante d'une aile de papillon, est époustouflant. « Lisabel et moi adorons la musique et nous ne voulions pas dénaturer l'objet même que constitue un piano. J'ai donc suggéré que la peinture soit à l'intérieur du couvercle pour que l'instrument de musique conserve toute son identité », commente M. Miller.

Sa collaboration avec les hôtels InterContinental a également été poursuivie. Après l'hôtel InterContinental Montréal, qui possède déjà une suite Lisabel, c'est au tour de l'hôtel InterContinental Toronto de se laisser séduire. « La suite de Toronto comporte des œuvres originales qui donnent une ambiance singulière au lieu et dont les visiteurs peuvent profiter durant leur séjour », relate M. Miller.

UN PARCOURS SINGULIER

Aujourd'hui artiste de renommée internationale, Lisabel s'est rapidement fait une place dans un univers pourtant difficile, d'autant plus qu'il y a encore dix ans personne n'aurait pu prédire ce succès. Et pour cause, Lisabel exerçait un tout autre métier. Occupant un poste important dans l'industrie des matériaux composites, elle peignait à temps perdu, malgré une passion omniprésente depuis son enfance. Ce n'est qu'en 2007 que, victime d'un grave accident de patins à roues alignées, Lisabel perd son emploi et décide de poursuivre son rêve en devenant une artiste à temps plein.

Elle remporte la même année le 1^{er} Grand Prix en technique distincte du 24^e Concours-gala international des Arts visuels Son et Lumière organisé par le Cercle des Artistes Peintres et Sculpteurs du Québec. Tout s'enchaîne alors.

Tableaux abstraits, mais aussi visages de femmes, corps d'animaux et silhouettes humaines, ses peintures séduisent par la richesse et la dynamique de leurs couleurs. De sa carrière antérieure, Lisabel a conservé un grand intérêt pour l'expérimentation des produits chimiques. Fabriquant ses propres couleurs à l'aide d'une base de polyester et de pigments et travaillant à la spatule, l'artiste a développé ses propres techniques. C'est d'ailleurs ce qui donne à ses œuvres un fini texturé particulièrement reconnaissable.

Récemment, mue par la volonté d'explorer une nouvelle forme d'art, Lisabel a conçu des tableaux dotés d'un éclairage à DEL intégré. Changeant de couleur régulièrement, les toiles semblent en mouvement et nous transportent dans une autre dimension. L'artiste a poussé le concept jusqu'à peindre d'immenses plafonds éclairés dans sa magnifique galerie-atelier. « Nous souhaitons proposer aux clients le même type d'installation. Comme d'habitude, ils profiteront d'un service sur mesure et bénéficieront d'une œuvre d'art unique », ajoute M. Miller. La Galerie Lisabel : un espace très privé

Dotée d'une superficie de 4 000 pieds carrés, la Galerie Lisabel est un immense loft ultracontemporain situé dans le dynamique quartier de Griffintown. Aménagé comme un appartement, l'espace permet de mettre en contexte chaque œuvre. Les visiteurs peuvent ainsi imaginer sans peine les tableaux dans leur propre résidence. Ouverte sur rendez-vous seulement, la galerie peut également être louée pour des événements d'affaires ou des réceptions. Elle accueille d'ailleurs régulièrement des tournages d'émissions de télévision.

En juin, journalistes et collectionneurs ont pu découvrir les dernières œuvres de Lisabel. Heureusement, un événement plus grand public est prévu exceptionnellement pour l'automne. Ce sera l'occasion d'admirer des œuvres dont la beauté universelle touchera tout un chacun.

Dear Sir/Madame,

On behalf of the Soutar Career Centre at the Desautels Faculty of Management, I would like to recognize the outstanding contribution that Glenn Miller has made to our MBA program through his involvement in the Mentoring Program. Since he joined in 2013, Glenn has actively participated in countless mentoring activities where he generously shared his knowledge and insights with current students in the program. His hands-on approach, extensive network and years of business experience are all assets that have been fully leveraged by his mentees. Here are two testimonials from recent mentees which exemplify the contributions that he has made:

"I was an MBA graduate at McGill during the 14/15 and 15/16 academic years. As a foreign student, I was new to Montreal and looking to develop ties with local professionals in the field of finance."

I was paired with Glenn Miller as part of the mentorship program, a key part of the experiential component of the MBA. We interacted regularly and I quickly came to trust and respect Glenn. He opened up his network, invited me to events that were relevant to my professional ambitions and helped me understand the local landscape. His support was an important springboard into my professional career in Montreal post-graduation.

Our relationship has continued to this day both through professional collaboration and personal acquaintance. Glenn is well connected, has vast experience in both finance and entrepreneurship and has always made time for me."

- Oliver Proudlock (MBA 2015) Associé Principal, Montérégie, Centre du Québec & Estrie at Roynat Capital

I graduated from the McGill MBA in 2013 and was fortunate to be paired with Glenn Miller in the mentorship program. Glenn is a solid individual who has had an amazing career which helps him bring a unique perspective on finance and business.

Glenn was always very generous with his time and knowledge and even let me work on a few restructuring deals with him during the program. He provided me with the guidance necessary for me to land a job at AGF Management as a research associate. There is no question in my mind that the mentorship program is one of the more important parts of the MBA and Glenn Miller should be a part of it.

- Andrew MacDonald (MBA 2013) Investment Advisor at RBC Wealth Management

It is the dedication and the commitment of alumni like Glenn that allow our students to professionally develop and make the transition from school into the real world.

Regards,

MJ
